2024 REPORT
On the Responsible Consumption Program
Ensuring the shift to rational consumption and production patterns at IEU

In 2024, International European University actively worked on the implementation of the Responsible Consumption Program and the shift to rational consumption and production patterns. The University managed to achieve significant results in the development of educational programs, organization of training events, research on responsible consumption and implementation of sustainable practices in production and administration.

Cooperation with local communities and partners in sustainable development has also been successful, allowing the University to expand its capabilities in this area.

The University has also focused on attracting funding for initiatives and projects aimed at responsible consumption and has made steady progress in improving resource and energy efficiency.

The introduction of environmental and social innovations in the educational process is also an important step in achieving goals of the Responsible Consumption Program.

The report confirms the commitment of International European University to implement responsible consumption and sustainable development, as well as indicates the achieved results and ways of further development.
